The second edition of this atlas has been revised and greatly enlarged to take account of recent diagnostic advances in the field of haematology. It contains 750 color photomicrographs of common and less common cell types and is intended to supplement the personal study of preparations under the microscope. The photographs are grouped into five sections covering red cells and their precursors, nonerythroid cells of myeloid origin, lymphocytes, plasma cells, and platelets. The new edition of this atlas has been considerably enlarged and now contains 750 colour photomicrographs compared with the 349 of the previous edition. The selection of material is well balanced without undue emphasis on rarities and in the present climate.
